CHOPS CITY GRILL, NAPLES

When Skip Quillen debuted Chops City Grill on Fifth Avenue in 1997, it was a revelation—an upscale steak house with a full raw bar and sushi. And while the kitchen remained on the cutting edge, with Quillen and his team reworking the menu at regular intervals, the dining room had become dated. In late 2019, Quillen gutted the space down to the studs, renovating the restaurant with breathtaking results. Rich lavender drapes, plush velvet banquettes, deep wood paneling and delicate crystal chandeliers weave together for a sumptuous experience that matches the gravitas of the menu. The latter was also refreshed to offer not only top domestic cuts of beef from farms like Idaho’s Snake River but also wagyu from Australia and Japan. Prime rate, all around.
